For Immediate Release

LOYOLA OPENS TRAINING CAMP

The 1970 edition of the Loyola College Warriors will convene for a meeting and medical exams this evening. Tomorrow they will commence two-a-day practices.

On hand to greet the squad will be a coaching staff that will look like an early Alouette reunion meeting. Schenley Award winners, Head Coach George Dixon and Line Coach Tony Pajaczkowski, both who played with the Als, are returning. Another former Alouette, Larry Tomlinson, who directed the Loyola's J.V. Football team last season, has had varsity training camp duties added to his job. Tomlinson will work with Defensive Coach Pete Reginbald and be responsible for defensive linemen and linebackers. Reginbald, a lachine product, also saw action as a flanker with the Als. Loyola's Basketball Coach Doug Daigneault, who finished a nine year C.F.L. playing career with the Montreal club, will lend his expertise in an assistant football coaching role during the early season.

The coaching staff will have a solid nucleus to work with. Twenty-seven lettermen are returning including tackles, 280 lb. Bob Miele and 240 lb. Greg Iodice, ends, 205 lb. Dwayne Dudgeon and 217 lb. John Williams, fullback, 205 lb. Randy Milburn, speedy halfback 170 lb. Frank Belvedere, defensive halfbacks, 165 lb. Jerry Lange, 160 lb. Rick Niemirowski, and 180 lb. Joe Manzoli.

All new or returning Loyola students who are interested in trying out for the varsity or junior varsity teams should be in attendance at the initial meeting tonight.
